

I am opposed to this proposal, as I have serious concerns with the interference it will create over the entire shortwave spectrum. In light of increased security concerns, this technology will degrade the reliability of radio communications. In addition, there are already well established broadband communications already in place, making this technology redundant and superfluous.